Airborne Instruments Leberatory - Approval of Purchasing System  Airborne Instruments Laboratory Attn: Deer Park, Long Island, New York  Centlement  As a result of a periodic review of your Purchasing System recently concluded by this office, you are advised that the original level of appreval established at $100,000 on fixed price orders with competition and $50,000 on sels entre produrements in letter of 15 July 1963, is amended to read $50,000 on all Fixed-Price orders, with or without competition.  This amendment in the dollar value of Fixed-Price orders is dictated solely by an Air Porce requirement to obtain a certain maker of your orders in formal embrissions to the Contracting Officer in order to constantly evaluate and test the adequacy of your purchasing system and the number of orders at the $100,000 level did not meet the Air Porce criteria. All other conditions of the original appreval letter of 22 November 1960 and 15 July 1963 remain unchanged.  The Air Force Furchase Methods Amalyst will perform continual surveillance of contractoris purchasing systems by reviewing selected purchase orders and subcontracts to evaluate purchasing performance, and by making other inquiries to test the continuing validity of the system. It is perticularly important, therefore, that you give continuing explains to competitive perchasing to the maximum practicable extent, including adequate Oct/Price Amalymis. This involves mot only the question of whether enough centures are solicited, but also whether your subcontracting practices provide all the other elements of free and open competition.  Your procurement management and staff at Airborne are to be complimented on the centimed improvement in purchasing they have achieved caring the past year.  Please acknowledge receipt of this communication.  Contracting Afficer  Contracting Afficer		And the second second	- 5/2
Airborne Instruments Laboratory - Approval of Purchasing System  Airborne Instruments Laboratory - Approval of Purchasing System STAT  Deer Park, Leng Island, New York  Gentlewen:  As a result of a periodic review of your Purchasing System recently concluded by this office, you are advised that the original level of expreval established at $100,000 on fixed price orders with competition and $50,000 on sole source procurements in letter of 15 July 1963, is amended to read $50,000 on all Fixed-Price orders, with or without competition.  This amendment in the dollar value of Fixed-Price orders is dictated solely by an Air Porce requirement to obtain a certain mander of your orders in formal submissions to the Contracting Officer in order to constantly evaluate and test the adequacy of your purchasing system and the number of seeker at the $100,000 level did not meet the Air Porce orders all other conditions of the original approval letter of 22 November 1960 and 15 July 1963 remain unchanged.  The Air Porce Purchase Methods Analyst will perform continued surveillance of contractor's purchasing system by reviewing selected purchase orders and subcontracts to evaluate purchasing performance, and by making other importate, therefore, that you give continuing emphasis to competitive purchasing to the maximum practicable extent, including adequate Cost/Price Analysis. This involves not only the question of whether enough courses are solicited, but also whether your subcontracting practices provide all the other elements of free and open competition.  Year procurement management and staff at Airborne are to be complimented on the continued improvement and staff at Airborne are to be complimented on the continued improvement and staff at Airborne are to be complimented on the continued improvement in purchasing they have achieved during the past year.	A AND
Airborne Instruments Laboratory - Approval of Purchasing System  Airborne Instruments Laboratory Attan:  Deer Park, Long Island, New York  Gentlemen:  As a result of a periodic review of your Purchasing System recently consuluded by this office, you are advised that the original level of approval established at $100,000 on fixed price orders at the competition and $50,000 on sole source procurements in letter of 15 July 1965, is assended to read $50,000 on all Fixed-Price orders, with or without competition.  This assendment in the dollar value of Fixed-Price orders is dictated solely by an Air Porce requirement to obtain a certain manbar of your orders in formal subsissions to the Contracting Officer in order to constantly evaluate and test the adequacy of your purchasing system and the mumber of creater at the $100,000 level did not meet the Air Porce oriteria. All other conditions of the original approval letter of $2 November 1960 and 15 July 1963 remain unchanged.  The Air Porce Purchase Methods Analyst will perform continual surveillance of contractor's purchasing system by reviewing selected purchase orders and subsentracts to evaluate purchasing performance, and by making other inquiries to test the continuing validity of the system. It is particularly important, therefore, that you give continuing emphasis to compositive purchasing - to the maximum practicable extent, including adequate Cent/Price Analysis. This involves not only the question of whether sough sources are solicited, but also whether your subcontracting practices provide all the other elements of free and open competition.  Flease acknowledge receipt of this communication.  All all proves of the Contraction of the pass acknowledge receipt of this communication.				STAT
Airborne Instrumente Laboratory Attn:  - Executive Vice-President  Deer Park, Leng Island, New York  As a result of a periodic review of your Purchasing Tystem recently concluded by this office, you are advised that the original level of approval established at $100,000 on fixed price orders with competition and $50,000 on sole source procurements in letter of 15 July 1963, is amended to read $50,000 on all Fixed-Price orders, with or without competition.  This amendment in the dellar value of Fixed-Price orders is dictated solely by an Air Force requirement to obtain a certain master of your orders in formal entwissions to the Contracting Officer in order to constantly evaluate and test the adequacy of your purchasing system and the number of series at the $100,000 level did not weet the fir Force criteria. All other conditions of the original approval letter of 22 November 1960 and 15 July 1963 remain unchanged.  The Air Force Furchase Methods Analyst will perform continual survaillance of contractor's purchasing system by reviewing selected purchase orders and subcentractor's purchasing system by reviewing selected purchase orders and subcentractor's purchase with your give continuing emphasis to competitive purchasing to test the continuing validity of the system. It is peritualarly important, therefore, that you give continuing emphasis to competitive purchasing - to the maximum practicable extent, including adequace Ceet/Price Analysis. This involves not only the question of whether enough sources are solicited, but also whether your subcontracting practices provide all the other elements of free and open competition.  Your procurement management and staff at Airborne are to be complimented on the continued improvement in purchasing they have achieved during the past year.
Deer Park, Leng Island, New York  Gentlesen:  As a result of a periodic review of your Purchasing System recently concluded by this office, you are advised that the original level of approval established at $100,000 on fixed price orders with competition and $50,000 on sole source procurements in letter of 15 July 1963, is assended to read $50,000 on all Fixed-Price orders, with or without esagestition.  This assendent in the dellar value of Fixed-Price orders is dictated solely by an Air Force requirement to obtain a certain number of your orders in formal submissions to the Centracting Officer in order to constantly evaluate and test adequacy of your purchasing system and the mander of spaces at the $100,000 level did not meet the Air Force oritoria. All other conditions of the original approval letter of 22 November 1960 and 15 July 1963 remain unchanged.  The Air Force Purchase Methods Analyst will perform continual surveillance of contractor's purchasing system by reviewing selected purchase orders and subscentracts to evaluate purchasing enformance, and by making other inquiries to test the continuing validity of the system. It is particularly important, therefore, that you give continuing emphasis o cert/Price Analysis. This involves not only the question of whether snough sources are solicited, but also whether your subcontracting practices provide all the other elements of free and open competition.  Your procurement management and staff at Airborns are to be complimented on the continued improvement in purchasing they have achieved during the past year.  Please acknowledge receipt of this communication.  Assignment of the communication.  Assignment of the communication.  Assignment of the communication.	*	Airborne Instruments Laborat	ory - Approval of Purchasing System
As a result of a periodic review of your Purchasing System recently complied by this office, you are advised that the original level of approval established at $100,000 on fixed price orders with competition and $50,000 on sole source procurements in letter of 15 July 1963, is amended to read $50,000 on all Fixed-Price orders, with or without competition.  This amendment in the dollar value of Fixed-Price orders is dictated solely by an Air Force requirement to obtain a certain mamber of your orders in formal submissions to the Contracting Officer in order to constantly evaluate and test the adequacy of your purchasing system and the number of orders at the $100,000 level did not meet the Air Force oriteria. All other conditions of the original approval letter of 22 November 1960 and 15 July 1963 remain unchanged.  The Air Force Purchase Nethods Analyst will perform continual surveillance of contractor's purchasing system by reviewing selected purchase orders and subscentracts to evaluate purchasing performance, and by making other inquiries to test the continuing anglety of the system. It is perticularly important, therefore, that you give continuing emphasis to competitive purchasing to the involves not only the question of whether shough sources are solicited, but also whether your subcontracting practices provide all the other elements of free and open competition.  Your procurement management and staff at Airborne are to be complimented on the continued improvement in purchasing they have achieved during the past year.  Please adknowledge receipt of this communication.  Authority yours,		Attn: - Ex	ecutive Vice-President	STAT concluded by this office, you are advised that the original level of approval established at $190,000 on fixed price orders with competition and $50,000 on sole source procurements in letter of 15 July 1963, is amended to read $50,000 on all Fixed-Price orders, with or without competition.  This amendment in the dollar value of Fixed-Price orders is dictated solely by an Air Force requirement to obtain a certain number of your orders in formal submissions to the Contracting Officer in order to constantly evaluate and test the adequacy of your purchasing system and the number of enders at the $100,000 level did not meet the Air Force oriteria. All other conditions of the original approval letter of 22 November 1960 and 15 July 1963 remain unchanged.  The Air Force Furchase Methods Analyst will perform continual surveillance of contractor's purchasing system by reviseding selected purchase orders and subcontracts to evaluate purchasing performance, and by making other inquirites to test the continuing validity of the system. It is perticularly important, therefore, that you give continuing emphasis to competitive purchasing - to the maximum practicable extent, including adequate Cect/Price Analysis. This involves not only the question of whether sough sources are solicited, but also whether your subcontracting practices provide all the other elements of free and open competition.  Your procurement management and staff at Airborne are to be complimented on the centinued improvement in purchasing they have achieved during the past year.  Please acknowledge receipt of this communication.  Staff  Contracting Officer		Gentlemen:		i.
solely by an Air Porce requirement to obtain a certain number of your orders in formal submissions to the Contracting Officer in order to constantly evaluate and test the adequacy of your purchasing system and the number of orders at the $100,000 level did not meet the Air Force oriteria. All other conditions of the original appreval letter of 22 November 1960 and 15 July 1963 remain unchanged.  The Air Force Purchase Nethods Analyst will perform continual surveillance of contractor's purchasing system by reviewing selected purchase orders and subcentracts to evaluate purchasing performance, and by making other inquiries to test the continuing validity of the system. It is particularly important, therefore, that you give continuing emphasis to competitive purchasing - to the maximum practicable extent, including adequate Ocet/Price Analysis. This involves not only the question of whether enough sources are selicited, but also whether your subcontracting practices provide all the other elements of free and open competition.  Your procurement management and staff at Airborne are to be complimented on the continued improvement in purchasing they have achieved during the past year.  Please acknowledge receipt of this communication.  Authority This Vary truly yours,		concluded by this office, ye approval established at $100 and $50,000 on sole source pasended to read $50,000 on a	ou are advised that the original leve ,000 on fixed price orders with comp procurements in letter of 15 July 196	i of etition 3, is of contractor's purchasing system by reviewing selected purchase orders and subscattracts to evaluate purchasing performance, and by making other inquiries to test the continuing validity of the system. It is particularly important, therefore, that you give continuing emphasis to competitive purchasing - to the maximum practicable extent, including adequate Cost/Price inelysis. This involves not only the question of whether enough sources are selicited, but also whether your subcontracting practices provide all the other elements of free and open competition.  Your procurement management and staff at Airborne are to be complimented on the continued improvement in purchasing they have achieved during the past year.  Flease acknowledge receipt of this communication.  Attribute 1962  STAT  Contracting Officer		orders in formal submissions constantly evaluate and test the number of orders at the ariteria. All other conditi	rement to obtain a certain number of to the Contracting Officer in order the adequacy of your purchasing sys $190,000 level did not meet the Air long of the original approval letter	to tem and Force en the continued improvement in purchasing they have achieved during the past year.  Please acknowledge receipt of this communication.  Vary truly yours,  STAT  Contracting Officer		of contractor's purchasing and subcontracts to evaluate inquiries to test the conting important, therefore, the purchasing - to the maximum analysis. This involves not are solicited, but also what	system by reviewing selected purchase purchasing performance, and by making maing validity of the system. It is at you give continuing emphasis to continuing emphasis to continuing emphasis to continuing adequate only the question of whether enough ther your subcontracting practices process.	o orders  ing other  perticular-  mpetitive  ate Cost/Price  a sources
Vary truly yours,  STAT Contracting Officer  STAT		on the continued improvement	t in purchasing they have achieved d	ring the
STAT Contracting Officer STAT		Please acknowledge receipt	of this communication. acknow	leages 5/18/6x
Contracting Officer STA		Very truly yours,
		Contracting Officer		STAT
		aug to		STAT